THE STRANDED VESSELS. Hope of Saving the Elder-The Flag Ship

Victoria Remains Upright. London, Feb. 4 .- Work upon the stranded steamship Eider, ashore off Atherfield, Isle of Wight, was continued today. The agents of the company are still hopeful of being able to save her from becoming a total wreck if the weather continues moderate. The local maritime experts who have examined the Eider do not agree with the agents of the North German Lloyd Company; they say that the steamship is in a hopeless condition and that only a miracle will ever float her.

THE STRANDED FLAG SHIP. Advices received today show that the war ship Victoria, flag ship of the British Mediterranean squadron, which is stranded at Platea, still remains in an upright position. The reports that she had a great quantity of water in her are erroneous. She had a double bottom, and only the space between the two bottoms is full of water. Attempts have been made to tow her off, but they were unsuccessful. Her guns and 2,000 tons of gear of various kinds have been taken off of her, but notwithstanding this lightening she shows no signs of floating. It is expected that it will be found necessary to use pontoons in getting her afloat again.

ABDUCTOR OF HIS COUSIN. Charles E. Waterbury Arraigned on the

Charge of Kidnaping. East Stanwich, Conn., was arrested at steamship La Bourgogne, which arrived this morning. Mr. Rosenfeld left for Chicago this afternoon. Selleck. Waterbury was waiking along the road near his house. He had a bundle of clothing in his arms and a big revolver, which was cocked. He was looking suspiciously about him as he sneaked along. He evidently feared arrest and started pervonsly at every sound. When sneaked along. He evidently leared arrest and started nervously at every sound. When Selleck stepped in front of him Waterbury showed fight, but the deputy sheriff overpowered him and told him he had better be quiet, because there were other men right near by. Waterbury said he was on his way to Free is no doubt, however, that he intended to leave town.

The news of Waterbury's arrest spread in the community. The people of the small hamlets in this part of Connecticut were all interested in the case. They were indignant over the kidnaping and sympathized with Mr. and Mrs. Waterbury. When they heard that Charles E. Waterbury had been arrested they were greatly pleased. A company of farmers saw him safely locked up in jail in Greenwich. The prisoner is said to have made a confession, but the constables will not admit this. Waterbury was informed that McCann and Sutherland, his confederates in the kidnaping scheme, had been arrested and had made confessions. This been arrested and had made confessions. This dejected him greatly and he spent a very restless night in the lock-up.

At 12 o'clock today the three prisoners—Waterbury, Sutherland and McCann—were arraigned before Judge Hoyt. The court room was crowded. District Attorney Walsh conducted the prosecution. Little Ward Waterbury and his father and mother were in court. It will be remembered that Ward Waterbury said that one of the men who abducted him. said that one of the men who abducted him had a black beard on. A false beard was found in the house of Chas. E. Waterbury, where Ward was confined during his absence from home. It is believed that Chas. E. Waterbury put on this beard when Ward was coaxe from the school house, and that he expected this disguise to prevent Ward from ever identifying him. At the trial Chas. E. Waterbury will be required to put on this false beard, and then Ward Waterbury will be asked to identify him as one of the kidnapers.

The fact has become evident that the bullet that lacerated the intestines also pierced the stomach. She has not been able to retain any nourishment and a little champagne and shaved ice is about all that her attendants have dared give her as yet. This morning she took a little hot milk, but failed to keep it down, and recourse has been had to hypodermic injections in order to keep up her strength. It is hoped that as soon as the lacerated intestines are sufficiently healed it may be possible to clear out the obstruction by means of physic, and the question is as to whether or not she will have strength enough to hold out until then. where it will remain until the new hell of phi osophy is erected.

IT WOULD BE INTERESTING To know just how many people in Washington are wearing WILSON & CARR'S famous $3.50 shoe. Week by week the demand steadily increases. Mr. Wilson is frank to say that he expected great results from this shoe, but its sales overshadow by far those of any shoe ever sold by them. The ladies find the pliable, yielding leather a luxury for tender feet, and the gentlemen are surprised at their neat, dressy appearance and splendid wearing qualities. Either sex may choose between broad, medium, or narrow toe, and the ladies between dull or glaze finish.
